Once a student is officially enrolled and committed to attend class he/she must officially drop or withdraw his/her class by the deadline.

What is a drop compared to a withdraw? If you drop a class before the deadline, it will be as if you never signed up for the class. If you withdraw a W will appear on your transcript. The W shows an attempt to complete a class. Financial Aid will only pay for three attempts. Attempts in High School count against this number. The responsibility is yours to drop or withdraw from any classes at the U.

Students who fail a class, may not repeat the class at AMES. Classes can be repeated at the University of Utah campus, full tuition would apply.

Students will not be allowed to withdraw from a class after the withdraw date. A petition must be submitted to the University College and Office of Undergraduate Studies to authorize a late withdrawal. These petitions are available from your school counselor and are granted for non-academic reasons. Not doing well in the class is not sufficient reason to be allowed to withdraw. (Then you'd need to get some copies of the petition and the instructions about how to get in contact with Academic Advising Center to your high school counselor).
